

PLAGIARISM

plagiarism, n. Creative writing with creative authorship.

The most highly skilled plagiarists copy from forgotten, even ancient, sources, making it less likely that the true author will be recognized. Experts in the practice frequently rewrite, translate and/or paraphrase the original, the better to disguise it as new work. Successful plagiarists are by definition not recognized as such, since they have been so proficient in the practice they go undetected. The very finest plagiarists are recognized as great writers, sadly never gaining recognition for their greatness as plagiarists.
